Where to begin with this modernist A-Frame masterpiece? Well, how about the fact that it's an A-Frame, which we all know and love. The next thing that grabbed us was the soaring, dramatic staircase winding its way to the loft above. You know, the loft with the jet tub and spa steam shower? That loft. The Trulia listing is quite thorough in its description of the house and includes some background into its construction. CliffsNote version: The house was designed and built in 1975 by Richard Miller who was a Fellow at Frank Lloyd Wright's Taliesin West campus in Scottsdale, AZ. So, yeah, that answers that question. It's nothing short of a work of art in our eyes. Situated on 17 acres right near the NY/MA border in eastern Columbia County, perched on a hilltop with views of the Taconics and Berkshires. Feast your eyes below...
