Tennis - Ever fancied owning a house that was once occupied by a tennis champion? Well, here's your chance!! James Blake, the former World No. 4 player, has put up his Fairfield Beach area residence up for sale with the William Pitt Sotheby's International Realty Group.

The house is being listed at $799,000. Blake peaked at No. 4 in the world rankings and his career highlights included reaching the final of the year-ending ATP Masters Cup in 2006 as well reaching the quarter-finals at the Australian and US Opens before retiring in 2013.

Blake is now back to playing on the PowerShares Series circuit, where retired players compete with one another, and earlier this week, he reached the final in Omaha where he was beaten by compatriot and good friend Andy Roddick.
