ROWAYTON, Conn. -- New York City street and travel photographer Stacey Vukelj's work will be featured in the "Sundays at Sotheby's" series at William Pitt and Julia B. Fee Sotheby's International Realty's Rowayton brokerage on Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m.

"Our Rowayton brokerage is gearing up for yet another special evening of pure talent and beauty," said Darien agent Molly Crosland. "Vukelj's stunning photography will bring a whole new dimension of artwork to our successful 'Sundays at Sotheby's' series. I look forward to celebrating the often overlooked and obscure beauties of the world that are captured so artfully in Vukelj's work."

Vukelj's photographs reveal the juxtaposition of the bubble of seclusion and inherent chaos urban residents create around themselves with elements of isolation and scale.
