about the buying experience and help them realize their dreams of home ownership.

At the Home Buyers Event, Mitchell and her colleagues will demystify the home buying process by keeping their discussion simple and accessible for all who attend.

The event will focus on five key components to know before starting to shop for a home. Experts scheduled to take part include lenders, attorneys, inspectors and interior designers, as well as a representative from Citimortgage, who can help individuals determine their buying power and even pre-approve attendees for a mortgage on the spot.

Complimentary snacks and hot cider will be served, making for an elegant social gathering. Area businesses will also be providing coupons for various local services.

"Stop by, spend 10 minutes and find out all five things you need to know, as well as how to create an action plan," added Mitchell. "It is said that 'when you buy a home, it takes a village.' At the Home Buyers Event Series, potential buyers are connected with a team of experts that help them achieve the dream of home ownership."
