Special eye for architecture

Real estate agent Sarah Frassinelli Keenan's keen eye for interior architecture plays a key role in her success as a Realtor for the last 23 years.

She came to the profession after an interior architect career in New York City when she moved back to Connecticut, where she was born and raised.

Today, what sets her apart from others is her ability to see the potential in a property, as well as her sensitivity to her clients' requirements and lifestyles, she said.

Additionally, Keenan's negotiating skills have been refined as a result of years of selling and listing hundreds of houses.

As an agent with William Pitt Sotheby's International Realty, she serves Fairfield, Southport, Black Rock, Westport, Trumbull and Easton, where she personally lives.

In her spare time, she loves to garden, travel, hike and collect antiques. She has three daughters and a Labrador retriever named "Coco."

Keenan has a master's degree in science in design from Pratt Institute, a bachelor of arts from Sarah Lawrence College and she graduated from Choate Rosemary Hall and Unquowa School.

Her architectural design background helps her clarify for her clients how to make a property work for their needs — whether it be by removing a wall, expanding into or over a garage or simply by adding windows to bring in light and views.
