

AGENT PROFILE Ryan Miller

Commitment, loyalty, dedication

After spending more than 15 years working in the customer service industry, Ryan Miller was ready for a career change that offered him more flexibility and independence than a 9-to-5 job ever could. During his job search, he reconnected with an old friend and Realtor who suggested Miller give real estate a try.

Miller felt the knowledge and skills he learned over the years and his ability to work with all personality types proved to be a perfect match for the real estate business.

Today, he believes in nothing short of 100 percent commitment, loyalty and dedication to his clients. For him, the key to a successful purchase or sale is not based on price — rather it's in his client's satisfaction knowing that he or she is getting an honest and fair deal. He often tells them it's all not all about price. Instead, the willingness to compromise is what will make the deal happen.

As a full-time agent with William Pitt Sotheby's International Realty, Miller said he has the tools to reach far beyond the local market. However, he specializes in single-family residences, condominiums, first-time home buyers and relation, investment and bank-owned properties in Fairfield County and the Connecticut shoreline.

What he finds most rewarding is knowing that he's made a positive impact in someone's life.

"There's great joy and satisfaction that comes with knowing your clients are truly
