

Sotheby's offers international advantage

FAIRFIELD — The most prestigious global real estate brand, Sotheby's International Realty, comprises a network of the most respected real estate firms in the most sought-after markets all over the world.

Through William Pitt's affiliation with this global brand and its connection to the famous luxury auction house, the company can achieve broader exposure than any other real estate firm for their listings, working with buyers and sellers from well beyond the local markets.

The agents have access to a worldwide referral network consisting of more than 850 offices in 85 countries and territories on six continents.

In addition, William Pitt's award-winning website is translated in to 18 different languages and 50 different currencies.
