

AGENT PROFILE

A passion for staging, design

Local real estate agent Robin Paquin always had a passion for beautiful spaces to call home and even decorated the walls of her tent at camp when she was a child.

As an adult, she officially got into the real estate profession when she saw it as a perfect opportunity to merge her skills and passions for both customer service and design, she said.

Now, after more than a decade as a licensed agent, she said she loves to match people with their perfect home.

Paquin's clients benefit from her unique background, she said, which includes a career background in design and marketing in graphic design, retail merchandising and management.

She believes in high-quality staging and photography to bring in strong offers and provides complimentary staging techniques to her listings followed up with top-notch photography and marketing skills.

"Most buyers are starting their search for a home online, so the way a space translates in photos that are bright and organized is more important than ever to bring potential buyers to your doorstep," Paquin said. "Sellers must demand maximum exposure, and they can be confident that William Pitt Sotheby's will cast the widest net to market every property."

Whether buying or selling real estate, the Realtor recognizes it can be an overwhelming process, but she truly enjoys guiding her clients through each step of the journey toward an exciting goal. She finds the most rewarding part of her career is seeing repeat customers when their life-

Business: William Pitt Sotheby's International Realty

Lives: New Milford

Office: Danbury

Expertise: New construction, investment, first-time home buyers, marketing

Contact: (203) 820-6908, rpaquin@wpsir.com

style needs change.

She serves Northern Fairfield and Southern Litchfield counties, where she said she thrives on the challenge of showcasing each unique property in a way which appeals to the most diverse population of potential buyers.

Paquin, who calls New Milford home, can be found kicking up her heels long distance running or with her toes in the sand at Candlewood Lake in her free time. She is married with twins and has a bachelor's degree of fine arts in addition to coursework from New York School of Interior Design.